

RISKED LIFE TO SAVE GIRL IN AUTO CRASH

Miss Dorothy Williams of Dover and Driver of Chicago Car Have Narrow Escape at North Hampton

Miss Dorothy Williams, daughter of Frank H. Williams of Dover, and a summer resident at Rye Beach, probably owes her life to the courage of a young man who wrecked his car rather than run the risk of continuing on the road after his machine had been struck by the car driven by Miss Williams. Although Miss Williams and a gentleman riding with her were thrown from their car neither were injured and their car was but slightly damaged. The name of the young man could not be learned.

The accident occurred on the Lafayette Road at North Hampton about 4.30 Tuesday afternoon. The young man is the hired chauffeur for a family from Chicago who are spending the summer in Maine. He had been to Boston where he had driven one of the cars of the car's owner for examination before one of the Boston local selection boards and was returning alone over the main highway. Miss Williams was driving toward the main highway on a road leading from Rye Beach and making the turn at the "four corners," which is a blind turn, crashed into the high-powered car from Chicago.

The driver immediately threw his wheel to the right, crashed through an iron fence, into a ditch and continued, crashed into two telegraph poles, breaking them off close to the ground, the second pole falling across the wheel and breaking the steering column. Had the driver not jumped before hitting the second pole it is doubtful if he would have escaped with his life.

His car was badly wrecked, probably beyond repair, although it was towed later to Hutchins's Garage. The young man continued his journey home by train.

Four Americans Lost Their Lives When British Steamer Was Sunk By German Submarine

GERMANS CLAIM THE REPULSE OF BRITISH ATTACKS

(By Associated Press)
Berlin, via London, August 8.—British forces after an artillery bombardment of drum-fire intensity, proceeded from Newport against the German lines last night, but were repulsed according to the official statement issued by the German army headquarters staff. The statement added that the artillery activity against the French was resumed during the night.

BIG FLEET DESTROYED IN STORM

(By Associated Press)
London, August 8.—Seven Norwegian sailing vessels and 90 men were lost in a heavy gale off the coast of Greenland according to a dispatch to the Central News from Christiania. The lost vessels were a part of a fleet of fifty returning from a fishing trip in the Arctic.

(By Associated Press)
London, Aug. 8.—Four Americans lost their lives when the British steamer, Belgian Prince, was torpedoed on July 31 by a German submarine. One American was among the survivors. The Americans lost were William Crissey or William Hughes of Philadelphia; James Shew of Detroit; Thomas Gilman of Wellington, Mass.; and Ben Cain, a negro, of Norfolk, Va. William Snell, a negro member of the crew and an American citizen of Jacksonville, Fla., was the only American to be saved. Thirty-eight members of the crew perished while three were later picked up by a patrol boat.

According to the survivors the Germans removed the life belts and all the clothing from the crew with the exception of eight, and allowed them to stay on the deck of the sinking steamer with no chance of escape. The submarine then submerged without offering any aid.

KERENSKY ASKS CO-OPERATION OF THE CABINET

Calls for Redoubled Efforts of the Members to Bring About Organization in the Republic.

(By Associated Press)
Petrograd, Tuesday, August 7.—The first meeting of the new government was held today with Premier Kerensky presiding. Mr. Kerensky called on the members of the cabinet to assist in the reorganization of the government both for defense of the country against its enemies and the reorganization of political affairs, of finance and economics. He appealed to the members of the new government to redouble their efforts to bring permanent government to the republic.

WILL BE SERVED THE SAME AS BOOTLEGGERS

Enlisted Men Who Provide Booze Money Will Be Arrested.

In the future it will be as bad for an enlisted man as a bootlegger in the purchase of liquor. The police have been instructed by the U. S. District Attorney to cause the arrest in all cases of the enlisted man who furnishes the money for booze, as accessory. They will be tried and punished the same as the man who buys the liquor and the same penalty is imposed by the court.

OUTLOOK FOR HOME RULE IS MUCH BRIGHTER

(By Associated Press)
Dublin, Ireland, August 8.—The Irish Home Rule convention reopened today after its adjournment on July 26 and the general feeling now is that much good will result. Much importance is attached to the interview between Sir Horace Plunkett, chairman of the convention and King George and is taken to indicate that the convention has the interest of the crown behind it.

Wellington New Zealand, August 8.—And the greatest enthusiasm the New Zealand parliament today passed a resolution "to carry on the war until Germany was defeated."

ROOT TO REPORT TO THE PRESIDENT THIS AFTERNOON

General Scott to Report Directly to Secretary Baker on Conditions in the Russian Army

(By Associated Press)
Washington, August 8.—American Mission to Russia, headed by Elihu Root returned to Washington today to report to President Wilson the result of their visit and observations as gained in their three months' stay in the world's newest republic. Major-General Scott, chief of the American army staff will report directly to Secretary Baker and much valuable military information is expected to be given as General Scott was at the front with the Russian army much of the time on their route before the Austro-German forces.

Arrangements were made at the White House for President Wilson to receive Mr. Root and all the other members of the mission this afternoon. The only reports received by the government from the mission have been unofficial.

The members of the mission returned to Washington full of optimism. "The situation looks bright," Mr. Root said. "I am convinced that the Russian government will be able to pull itself together and will stand firm behind the Entente."

Charles E. Russell, another member of the mission, who lately resigned from the Socialist party, said that the chief duty of America was to convince the Russian people that the United States was really in the war and that if the Russian people can be so convinced they will stand firm. "Talk of peace," he said, "at this time and the agitation that there is no need to send an army to France is utter rot."

James Duncann, who represented labor on the mission, said that he considered the development of railroads the greatest need of Russia. "The outlook is good," he declared, "but better transportation facilities are needed to move troops and munitions to the front. There is plenty of munitions in hand," he continued, "and with their arrival at the front the Russian soldiers will fight like—"

Mr. Root declared that America's entry in the war would cause the Russian government to stand firm provided the people can be convinced that the United States is standing behind the Entente.

LIEUTENANT MEETS WITH ACCIDENT

One of the lieutenants connected with the coast artillery at the Portsmouth harbor fortifications met with a slight accident on Pleasant street near the Portsmouth Savings bank on Wednesday morning. In company with another officer he was in the act of crossing the street when he walked directly in front of a small car containing Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Curtin of Haverhill, Mass. The car pushed him in front of another car that was standing in front of the bank building, but he clung to the running board and esaped with only slight injury to the right leg. After having the injury dressed by a local physician he proceeded to the fort.

The driver of the automobile was absolved from all blame.

HIDE IN LINER TO FIGHT AGAIN

Three Boys Who Were in the Trenches in Europe Come Back to Enlist Here.

Three boys who have seen service on the battlefields of France, and Serbia arrived in Boston yesterday as stowaways, so that they might have some more fighting but this time with a United States regiment. They are George Gerow, Harry Watson and William Hawkins all of Detroit.

"We've got them licked now, but it may take a couple of years to complete the job and we want to be in on the finish," they said as they left Marshal Mitchell's office for the state house to register for the new national army.

The three hid in a liner leaving England and were not discovered until the ship was within the three-mile limit. American horsemen on board furnished them with food and later with clothing. Marshal Mitchell arranged with Director Getteny to have the three registered. They will proceed to Detroit. The trio were full of their adventures but agreed that the fact that Ty Cobb was batting .355 was as interesting a piece of news as they had heard for many months.

Watson and Hawkins enlisted in the 14th battalion in Canada in August, 1914, and went across with the first Canadian division. They were soon in the trenches. Gerow enlisted as an ambulance driver in July, 1915, and went overseas shortly afterward.

Watson was in the battle of the Somme and at Vimy Ridge and also took part in the engagements at Ypres where he was wounded and sent to a hospital in England. He said that the Somme affair was the longest stretch of fighting he was in, but that Vimy Ridge was the hardest.

Hawkins was also at Ypres and he declared that he saw one of the Canadian sergeants crucified to a barbed wire by German bayonets. After this bit of German brutality he said the colonials refused to take prisoners, but just went right in and gave it to them. He was wounded at Gevelincourt when he "went over the top" with his battalion to engage the enemy, with bayonets. One of the German bayonets pierced him in the right side and he was left for dead. He regained consciousness in a base hospital and he stayed there for four months afterwards being sent back to England to do light work around the camps.

Gerow's service was chiefly in Serbia where he was sent with a British mission. He was wounded in the leg early in his service, but was sent back on the line again. Later he suffered from shell shock. Two Serbians were killed at this time. Gerow was sent back of the lines and received.

EXETER

Exeter, Aug. 8.—In connection with the regular band concert last evening the members of the Moses N. Collins Relief Corps held a patriotic night on the steps of the town hall. Candy, ice cream, pop corn and mystery boxes were on sale and the steps were attractively decorated. The committee in charge were: Decorations, Mrs. Stewart E. Howe and Mrs. Grace L. Hayes; ice cream, Mrs. Ida Jenkins; lemonade, Miss Nellie L. Field; jewelry packages, Mrs. Annie W. Fleming; candy, Miss Annie Farnsworth; home cooking, Mrs. Viola Covey; fortunes, Miss Lillie Shaw; histories and quill, Mrs. Lizzie Elkins; pop corn, Mrs. Winifred Hartz. The band played patriotic music. A large sum was netted from the sale.

The draft board has decided to make the first call 130 men, the date not having been set as yet, but most likely on Friday and Saturday of this week. Judge H. L. Orinell of Derry, a member of the board has been in Concord during the past several days making arrangements and the date for the first call will probably be agreed upon this morning.

Dr. R. S. Perkins has been chosen as the second physician to assist Dr. A. W. Mitchell of Exeter.

Of the first 130 men in the first call 41 are from Derry, and the others well scattered about the district. It is thought that there will be at least three calls for examination in order to get the required quota of 65 men.

John Hall died yesterday morning at his boarding place, the home of Mrs. Jennie Farnham on Front street. He was a former employe of the Gate Bros. Shoe factory and came here 12 years ago from Stoneham, Mass. He was a native of England and has no relatives in this country. Thirteen years ago he had a brother, Rev. Frederick Hall in Scarborough, England, and a sister, Mrs. McKay in London. A cablegram was sent to the former address of his brother yesterday morning. Mr. Hall had of late lived a retired life.

George Leavelle of Newfields was married yesterday morning at St. Michael's church to Miss Helen Murphy of Union street, the ceremony being performed by the pastor, Rev. P. J. Scott in the presence of many friends. The couple left for a wedding trip to Montreal and will later live in Newfields.

Exeter's contribution to Co. 3, Coast Artillery corps, which is now at Fort Stark amounts to $1000.

A special car over the Exeter, Hampton and Amesbury line yesterday morning took a picnic party from the cathedral church at Manchester to Hampton Beach, among the party being Rev. Francis J. Hapney, former assistant pastor of St. Michael's church here, but now with the Manchester church.

A session of superior court was held yesterday before David P. Dyer of Concord, a master appointed by the court. The business consisted of the Mayer-Loka theatre case, and among the attorneys were John Seaton, Arthur O. Fuller and County Solicitor William H. Sleeper, all of Exeter. Miss Lena Conway of Concord was present as stenographer.

BODY OF LITTLE BRADSHAW GIRL STILL MISSING

St. Johnsbury, Vt., Aug. 8.—Although continued search has failed to disclose any trace of the body of Alice Bradshaw, aged 8, who is believed to have been murdered on July 5, evidence in the case will be presented to the September grand jury if it was learned last night.

County Attorney James B. Campbell, who has had several conferences with Attorney General James Barber regarding the investigation said that while the search for the body had been virtually abandoned for some weeks, the state had no intention of setting free the two women who are alleged to have confessed that they killed the girl.

Mrs. Alvin Kemiston and Miss Ella May Hicks since their arrest, following the disappearance of the child, have remained at the county jail here, although no formal charge has been made against them and no hearing has been held. Both Miss Hicks, who was formerly housekeeper for Bradshaw, Alice's father, and Mrs. Kemiston, a neighbor of the Bradshaws refused to give any information as to what was done with the girl's body, notwithstanding an alleged readiness on their part, according to the officials to admit that the little corpse was put out of the way because she was a bother.

It was said last night that there was a likelihood that the women might be removed within a few days from the jail to the state prison at Windsor, for observation as to their mental condition.

KITTERY POINT

Kittery Point, Aug. 8.—At the last meeting of the Equal Suffrage League, Mrs. Epps gave an interesting account of the great good accomplished in Norway (her native country) by the women's vote. There, women have had full franchise for twenty years and it is a great surprise to Mrs. Epps to find that women here were still asking for the ballot.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Tucker and two granddaughters of Marblehead, Mass., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. John Tucker of the Norton road.

Miss L. Marston of Dorchester is a guest at Ash Knoll Farm for the month of August.

Mrs. Martin Walker has returned to her home after visiting relatives in Somersworth.

LEADERS SAY SENATE WILL PASS FOOD BILL

Final Vote on Conference Coming This Afternoon at 4.00 O'clock--Bill Goes to President Friday

(By Associated Press)

Washington, Aug. 7.—After a day of bitter dispute and debate the Senate reached an agreement tonight to take a final vote on the conference report of the administration food control bill at 4.00 o'clock this afternoon. The report has already been accepted by the House. Administration leaders, advocates of the bill and opponents are agreed that the bill will pass the Senate without difficulty, probably by an overwhelming majority.

The sending of the bill to the President for his signature will be delayed until Friday as the House has adjourned to Friday and the measure must be signed by the presiding officers of both houses before going to President Wilson.

Discussion of the bill in the Senate today had apparently convinced the opponents to the legislation that further debate would be useless. The bill has been delayed for more than a month past the time which President Wilson hoped to see it enacted into law.

SEC. DANIELS ON NAVAL PRISON

RECOMMENDATIONS OF "WRITER"
ALREADY IN FORCE—WORK OF
MESSRS. HILL AND OSBORNE
ALONG LINES NAMED.

The following correspondence with comment touches a subject of local interest.

Mr. F. W. Hartford, Editor the Chronicle, Portsmouth, N. H.

"Dear Mr. Hartford—As there is a naval prison at the Portsmouth Navy Yard perhaps some of your readers may be interested in the enclosed correspondence which I have had with Senator Weeks.

"If you think that it would be an advantage to the young men and to the naval service to have such of the naval prisoners as are worthy of such treatment given an opportunity to serve their country in this emergency and also to redeem their good name as sailors in the United States navy, I hope that you will help the project along as much as you can.

Sincerely yours,
"THOMAS O. MARVIN."

"August 1, 1917.
Hon. John W. Weeks, Senate Office Building, Washington, D. C.

"Dear Senator Weeks—In the report of the Secretary of the Navy for 1916, page 59, it is stated that "within three years, though the enlisted strength of the navy has increased more than 6,000, the number of prisoners has decreased from 1835 to 620, and the number steadily diminishes."

"I have no other information in regard to the number of prisoners now confined in our naval prisons, but I believe that it would be well worth your while if you could have an investigation made which would show the number of prisoners, the offenses for which they were convicted, and the record of the men before and after sentence.

"If there are in our naval prisons in the neighborhood of 600 men, I believe that you would be rendering a valuable service to the men and to the navy by having a review of their cases ordered.

with a view of releasing on parole for war service all such men as seem to merit this treatment. Undoubtedly there are many fine young men among the prisoners whose fault was impetuous rather than criminal, and these men ought to be given a chance to redeem their good name, to recover their position in the service and serve their country in this emergency. I think that you can render them and the navy a valuable service by adopting this suggestion if you think it has any merit.

Sincerely yours,
"(Signed) THOMAS O. MARVIN."

"United States Senate, Washington.

"Thomas O. Marvin, Esq., 77 Summer St., Boston, Mass.

"Dear Mr. Marvin—I have your letter of August first relative to the number of prisoners in naval prisons, and I will have that matter looked up and see if any action can be taken to carry out the suggestions you make.

Sincerely yours,
"(Signed) JOHN W. WEEKS."

Note from The Editor—Referring to the above, Secretary Daniels has been working along the above lines for the past year or more. The writer talked with the Secretary last September on this subject and he told me that he had made out by Captain W. L. Hill, U. S. N., and Thomas Mott Osborne a list of all the prisoners, their offenses and a recommendation as to their restoration to duty, etc. This system has been carried out for years by Captain Hill.

"There are now about five hundred prisoners here and they will be fitted for further service if it is in them. Mr. Osborne will work along those lines.

WHY GEORGIA BOUGHT A SLAVE

State Owned Railroad and Employee and Worked Them Together

The State of Georgia was at one time the owner of a slave. Whether or not any other State ever owned a slave or slaves is not known, but certainly it is highly probable that no other State ever owned a slave and a railroad at the same time and worked them together, as was the case with the slave owned by Georgia.

The negro's name was Atkinson.

inter called Ransom Montgomery, by reason of the fact that before he was acquired by the State he was owned by a man named H. B. Y. Montgomery. He was purchased outright by the State through an act of the Legislature of 1819 for having saved the railroad bridge over the Chattahoochee River from destruction by fire, and later was placed upon a salary under the supervision of the "principal engineer."

Subsequently when the war was over, Ransom, now a free man, was again remembered by the State. Although the State was practically bankrupt, an act of the General Assembly approved Aug. 3, 1865, authorized the superintendent of the State road to pay to Ransom from the treasury of the road the sum of $562.50, and also to provide him with a home during the rest of his life.—Atlanta Constitution.

RUSSIA'S IRON MAN BREAKING DOWN UNDER STRAIN

(By Associated Press)

London, Aug. 7.—The health of M. Alexander Kerensky, Russia's "Iron Man," is causing great concern among his friends and reports state that he is showing the effects of the cares and worries which have been thrust upon him since he assumed the office of premier of the Provisional Government. Great fears for his health are expressed as he is showing signs of giving way beneath the strain.

No man in the world has more cares nor has been more active in the past few weeks than M. Kerensky.

Illustrative of the state of his health are the statements of his friends who have seen him lately. Even some weeks ago the change was noticeable when following his speeches he appeared near fainting and only his iron nerve and remarkable will-power has enabled him to continue his work with the great strain under which he is living.

He is described as emaciated, weak and nervous, with a pallor of death upon his face, brilliant eyes, but not the brilliancy of strength. While his voice is still strong the least effort is said to cause him to become weak from strain.

TO MOBILIZE DRAFT ARMY NEXT MONTH

Washington, Aug. 7.—Mobilization of the first 637,000 men to be called out for the national army in September was being planned today by the war college, the provost marshal-general and railway traffic experts.

Gen. Crowder said it is the greatest problem in troop transportation ever facing this country. Details involved movement of citizen soldiers from each of the 467 districts in the country. It will be necessary, Crowder said, to have the men leave in small groups or the limited railroad facilities would be swamped. Twenty or 30 per cent of the first quota in each district will leave between Sept. 1 and 15, about 10 per cent will leave in the second movement and the remainder will go at a later date, probably about Oct. 1.

Whether the men will go home to contingent camps or concentrate at some central point in each state first will depend on traffic conditions.

FOR AMERICANS OF IRISH DESCENT

(By Norreys Jephson O'Connor of the Vigilantes.)

The coming convention which will endeavor to settle the question of the government of Ireland, is likely to make the 25th of July as important a date in Irish history as any since St. Patrick lit the Paschal fire on the hill of Slane. None will watch the proceedings of the convention with greater interest than the many friends of Ireland in this country, but those who have and those who have not Irish blood, it behooves them all to consider well the purpose of what promises to be a noteworthy gathering.

Throughout history Ireland has stood as the champion of liberty that has been fought; but now, during the greatest of all struggles, for the liberty of not only one but many nations—even the liberty our ancestors in America strove for a hundred and fifty years ago—Ireland presents the strange spectacle of the one country in the ranks of the allies which is not given over entirely to the common task, but which by reason of domestic discord, is hampering universal effort. A curious paradox.

Apologists would have us look at the wrongs of Ireland in the past, many and grievous, but the task of Irishmen is the Ireland of today and tomorrow, not the country of yesterday save in so far as it built better in accordance with the lessons of the past the country of the present and future.

Men of imagination and high ideals would have restored ancient Ireland under the new name of the Irish Republic; but it is not only this ancient Ireland which is ours with a world reform. It is Ireland as one of a concert of liberty-loving nations. This will be the Ireland of tomorrow. Ireland cannot remain aloof from the national family without sacrificing the spiritual influence which has ever been her most important contribution to world civilization. She would be at the mercy of the first contrary-minded nation which chooses to seize her. The glory of Ireland in the centuries following the death of Patrick was, that she did not live to herself, but her missionaries went forth to reclaim the world. As she withdrew from this world, Ireland lapsed into civil discord and her influence waned. A Gaelic state is indeed a beautiful ideal, but there must at the same time be the larger point of view of a state which serves and co-operates with other nations.

Men of imagination and feeling alone are not so much needed at the forthcoming convention as men who have judgment tempered by the sentiment, men who will not barter the opportunity of the present for the beauty of the past. In early Irish literature there is good advice for those who would deliberate concerning, and pray for the future of Ireland. ("The Second Battle of Moytura" (Revue Celtique XI, page 510), Breen, the unjust king who has been expelled from his kingship, complains to his father, and is told, "Better were their prosperity than their kingship."

With these words to mind, all the friends of Ireland, will hope in the next few weeks to see Irishmen set aside their differences and approach a common problem upon the common meeting ground of a glorious national tradition and national literature. May they remember Ireland, not only as the servant of her own liberty, but of a larger world liberty. So again shall the "Island of Saints and Scholars" come to her own, and the many Irishmen who have died in France and Flanders and the near East, will together with those who fell in the rebellion, have perished in a common cause. Let the Irish Gael think more of Ireland's prosperity than of her kingship.

GERMANY NEEDS MONEY TO HELP CONTINUE WAR

Washington, Aug. 7.—Confidential reports received here tonight from reliable sources reveal that demands for loans of large sums of gold from Switzerland have been made by Germany in exchange for her exports of coal. This would indicate that Germany was hard pressed for funds with which to carry on the war.

EATS HIS WAY TO ENLISTMENT IN THE NAVY

Boston, Aug. 7.—Ruben Fliegelman, a comicalist of 123 Diamond street, Watpole, advises young men who try to join the navy or army and are rejected never to get discouraged. The musician with the peculiar name tried to enlist in the navy, but was turned down because he was underweight. "Three hours later he returned and his second application was successful. When Fliegelman tried to enlist he was just two pounds underweight, but he smiled and walked out. He inquired to the nearest armchair lunch room. This is what he ate and drank: Six large bananas, four glasses of water and four glasses of egg and milk. He gained 3 1/2 pounds. He walked back to the navy recruiting station and stepped on the scales. The hand flew to around to 123 1/2. He had 112 1/2 pounds to spare. He filled out his application blank, and the naval officers accepted him.

A DISCARDED THEORY

In the early days of aviation, when aviators took sudden falls for which they could not account, they explained that they had encountered an air pocket. But the Smithsonian Institution has investigated the peculiarities of the air and found that there is no such thing as an air pocket as meant by aviators.

These pockets were thought to be either partial vacuums made by some peculiarity of the currents or accumulations of gas so different from air that when the aeroplane entered it could not accommodate itself to the new conditions quickly enough and began to fall.

It is not uncommon for an aeroplane apparently to lose its grip on the air and suddenly fall 100 feet, leaving the aviator as helpless as the driver of a sliding automobile. Before modern methods of controlling the flight of aeroplanes were devised there were many falls from this cause.

The Smithsonian Institution experiments discarded the vacuum theory for the simple reason that under all conditions air in the same plane retains the same density. And it was shown that a gas pocket could not exist because it would tend to mix with the air. The impression that there were holes in the air seems to have originated because of a sudden encounter with a current which bore the machine downward. There are currents in the air caused by the wind and differences in temperature, and some of these currents flow upward and downward like funnels or canyons. In summer a cool wind which encounters a spot on the earth which is warmer than the surrounding country—in, for instance, a desert—turns upward.

An aviator may rise in such a funnel, fly for some distance in it, and then come to the edge. His machine immediately begins to drop, and if he gains control in time to save himself he will find an air pocket. The explanation of the land—Indianapolis, Ind.

CHELSEA AGAIN THREATENED BY CONFLAGRATION

(By Associated Press)

Chelsea, Mass., Aug. 7.—One which did $50,000 damage started tonight in the building of Cutler and Brickman, cigar dealers. Aft was called from Revere and Everett and a three-hour battle was necessary before the flames were brought under control. Fears were held that the city was doomed to another conflagration similar to the one which destroyed it in 1912.

Don't let the fund for the Portsmouth hospital fall behind previous years.

HOSPITAL NEEDS $1500 FOR ITS WORK

Saturday, August 11th, will be the eighth annual Tag Day for the Portsmouth Hospital. Amounts from $1,000 to $1,500 have been received on each Tag Day for the last seven years. Let us try to beat the record this time. The hospital is in greater need of funds than ever before with the price of supplies food and service constantly increasing.

We have exceeded in subscribing the amount demanded from us for the Liberty Loan—we gave more than our share for the Red Cross. Let that same spirit prevail in giving toward the Portsmouth Hospital—our own charity—and one that needs the help more than any other. Therefore give—and give generously—and give till it hurts. Tag Day is the one day in the year when you are asked to give to the hospital when everyone has an opportunity to give any amount, no matter how small. Friends and citizens of Portsmouth and summer visitors rally to our aid and help us make this day famous in the history of the Hospital in Portsmouth.

The Coming Annual Encampment.

The people of New Hampshire, regardless of race, creed or political affiliations, will be deeply interested in the coming annual encampment of the New Hampshire Veterans' Association, which will be its 41st. It is to be held the latter part of this month at the Weirs on the shore of Lake Winnepesaukee, a very pleasant and convenient place for such a gathering, and will continue for four days. All parts of the state are sure to be well represented and the occasion will be a very happy one for the old soldiers who helped to save the Union from dissolution way back in the 60's.

An excellent program has been arranged for the four days and there will be something doing all the time. The chief interest at such gatherings is the meeting of old comrades and the renewal of acquaintanceships. There is no form of association in the world that binds men more closely together than comradeship in an army; and particularly at this time, when the world is in the throes of the greatest war in history, will the veterans enjoy getting together and talking over their experiences at the front more than half a century ago.

Every provision will be made for the comfort of the veterans. There will be comfortable sleeping quarters and no shortage of rations. Neither will the rules of the camp be as strict as they were on the southern fields. All of the conditions will be vastly different, and while martial music will stir the spirits of the grizzled warriors the note will be the note of peace. The governor of the state will honor the gathering one day by his presence and will deliver an address, and there will be other distinguished guests who will also be heard.

Such a gathering of men who took an active part in a war which resulted in preserving the country one and indivisible cannot fail to be of interest to all classes of the population. Most of the men and women now living have come upon the scene since the close of the Civil war, but they are familiar with the story of the sacrifices made by the defenders of the Union, and are not lacking in appreciation of what was done and suffered in the cause of freedom for all dwellers beneath the stars and stripes.

The people of New Hampshire will be with these old soldiers in spirit when the time comes for them to meet. There will be a general hope that the weather and all other conditions may be propitious and that the gathering may be in every feature all that it should be. The ranks of the Grand Army are thinning year by year and the organization will soon be a thing of the past. But while there is a remnant left it is proper that the members should get together at least once a year for such peculiar enjoyment as can be known to them alone. Success to the coming gathering of New Hampshire's heroes of '61 to '65.

The law-abiding people of the country will not take kindly to the release on bail of Alexander Berkman and Emma Goldman, the New York anarchists, who were recently imprisoned for interfering with the conscription law, particularly in view of the fact that they have been notorious defiers of government for years. They were fairly convicted and their sentences were not extreme, and they should have been compelled to serve them to the last minute. It is this sort of thing which shows the weakness of the democracy we so loudly boast.

It is claimed that England has some new "dreadnaughts" which are capable of crossing the Atlantic in less than three days, and that Mr. Balfour traveled on one of them when he recently visited this country. This may be true. It certainly is true that people are beginning to make liberal allowance for some of the things they read in the papers at this exciting time.

Is 1917 to go down in history as a year of especially destructive storms? The elements have been mightily on the rampage of late, causing loss of life and tremendous destruction of property. It is to be hoped that the pace set will not be maintained during the remainder of the season.

Hasn't this country enough war on its hands without starting a race riot every few days? Recent news from Chester, Pa., and Youngstown, O., smacks altogether too strongly of the late appalling affair at East St. Louis. It is time this devilishness should stop.

The Allied Powers at their recent Paris conference decided to continue the war until its object is accomplished. And it is understood that the Germans are going ahead under a precisely similar decision.

The country is waking up to the fact that the cost of this war is not going to be paid in small change. Those who failed to secure any of the first Liberty bonds need not worry. There will be further opportunities.

The "pork barrel" legislators in Congress appear to be firmly wedded to the doctrine of "business as usual."

RUSSIA'S DEBT AND RESOURCES

War Burden Large, but New Era of Commercial and Industrial Expansion is Looked for Great Results.

New York, Aug. 8.—The economic development of Russia in the next decade will repeat the remarkable development of the United States since the Civil War, according to Vladimir J. Novitsky, representative of the Ministry of Finance in the Russian Mission to the United States. He says that since the Russo-Japanese war Russia has been steadily developing her economic and financial powers and will certainly do so on a much larger scale, now that she has entered the new path of democracy and freedom.

"The war has placed upon Russia an enormous financial burden, amounting now to about $15,000,000,000," writes Mr. Novitsky, in "The American." Russia's national debt, which before the war, in 1913, aggregated about $4,500,000,000, has now reached the $20,000,000,000 mark. But behind Russia are enormous undeveloped resources. The drain on this war only emphasizes the need of developing these resources. Such a development will in a comparatively short time eliminate the burden of the present war, will increase the national income, and will open a new era of commercial and industrial expansion in Russia. The industry retained by the old regime, by prohibition and selfish legislation, will now be able to expand freely and attain its fullest development.

"Russia's national debt, large as it is, if compared to the country's national wealth and to the enormous resources which will be developed under the protection of new democratic institutions, will be found to be not out of proportion and excessive. Until now, the value of Russia's resources has never been estimated. The Government is at present drawing up an approximate estimate of the valuation. It will exceed all expectations. When the world is in possession of Russia's true economic and financial status, all doubts will be removed. Russia's financial debt in proportion to her vast resources will be lower than the debt of other belligerent countries in proportion to the resources which are behind them. A country which possesses an enormous national fund can afford to have a big national debt and large total of currency."

"Although the Constituent Assembly is expected to solve the most important economic and financial problems confronting the nation, the Provisional Government has already adopted many stringent measures. The most important amongst these is a more efficient apportionment of taxes, the establishment of several state monopolies, improvement of the transportation system, etc. At the present time much is being done for a proper development of the railroad system in Russia. About 30,000 miles of new railway lines are to be completed within the next five years."

"Russia is facing a new era of economic development and there is no doubt that by active policy the United States may share largely in this development. Russia needs the help of American capital and business enterprise in her economic development. The United States, with a surplus capital and with a steadily increasing industrial production, requires the immensely large Russian market as an outlet for its trade and its investment. The two democracies are in a position to co-operate in the mutual attainment of further economic success."

Poor Judgment

The girl who has married a man in the hope of saving him from war has picked out a mighty poor kind of husband.

"Resist the Devil"
(From the Detroit Free Press)
There is in an old book a word of advice concerning the way in which the devil ought to be treated. This word of advice has nothing whatever to say about conciliation or of trust in the honor of the evil one. It says, "Resist the devil." And it adds by way of encouragement, "And he will flee from you." This is the only safe and sane attitude to take toward the Berlin Government until the day arrives when properly chastened, the evil spirits now in control will leave it as they left the herd mentioned in the Bible.

"Attaboy"
(From the Syracuse Post-Standard)
The shout of the camp and the prospective battle cry of the American soldiers in France—we must decline for the present, at least, to designate them as "Sammy's"—taken from the baseball glossary, "Attaboy" yells the American to his comrade whether the occasion calls for a word of thanks, of cheer, or of praise; and no American can fail to understand. By-every American knows not only the game of baseball, but he knows its language, and "Attaboy" is so well recognized as the coach's abbreviation for "That's the boy" that it really does not deserve to wear quotation marks.

The Sun thinks that Attaboy is contemporaneous with Pop Anson, which is to say that it came into the speech of people along with the game itself. In its present form and accent we should say that it is of later birth; we had supposed that it was the contribution to our language of that eminent linguist and coevalist, Hughie Jennings. If any anterior can claim credit for it in its present form and meaning let him file his claim, for the word is here to stay. The phrase which has grown into use as it is not a cursory exclamation.

The French and British will doubtless be some what disturbed and bewildered by Attaboy. The British, we suspect, will find it hardest to understand how men of their tongue could devise so strange a word and the French, after their first puzzlement, will receive it delightedly. The lips which cannot say Pershing or United States will get "Attaboy" with the bass ball fan's accent.

EIGHTY-FIVE WERE KILLED IN THE RIOT

(By Associated Press)
An Atlantic Port, August 8.—A description of the labor troubles which broke out in Lisbon, Portugal, on July 7, and the first detailed information of the scene was given today by Gilbert J. Robinson, a representative of a shipping firm who was in the city at the time. Only censored cable reports of the trouble had been received here.

According to Mr. Robinson, who arrived here today on a steamer from Europe, troops were called out and parliamentary rule was suspended. The troops after being attacked by the mob, charged the crowd, firing and killing eighty-five and arresting 1500 of the rioters. The trouble was aggravated by all classes of labor demanding a 70 percent increase in wages to meet the increased cost of living.

CAMP DEVENS WILL OPEN ON SEPTEMBER 1

(By Associated Press)
Boston, August 8.—The first man from the Bay State called for duty in the American national army under the draft will report for duty on Sept. 1, according to an order received by Charles H. Gettany, director of enrollment for Massachusetts from Provost Marshal General Crowder today. The statement added that the entire quota would enroll for the enlistments between Sept. 1 and 5. Mr. Gettany stated that fully one-third of the Massachusetts quota would be ready for training the first of the month.

FIND DEAD DOGS, CATS AND HENS IN THE NORTH POND

By order of the board of health the gates of the north mill pond have been tied back for a few days to allow fresh water to flow in and out. The first appearance of the flats showed the filth which existed there. According to the health inspector, dead dogs, cats, hens, etc. were removed. The board of health will make it an object to anybody furnishing information as to the parties using the pond for a dumping ground for dead animals and other filth. The law will also be applied to the full extent if the guilty parties are brought into court.

KAISER'S WORDS CONVICT HIM

Washington, D. C., August 8.—Publication of a letter of the Kaiser to President Wilson by Ambassador Gerard on August 10, 1914, has confirmed the admissions made by lesser German officials of that period in defense of the action of violating the neutrality of Belgium. In the view of officials, the Kaiser's letter has added nothing new historically to the indictment of Germany, for ample evidence has existed to show the guilt of Berlin. The interesting fact is brought out, however, as noted here, that the President had this admission personally from the Emperor early in the war before Belgium had been destroyed but publication of the letter was withheld at the request of a German official.

No comment on the letter is obtainable at the White House and state department officials have considered the matter too important for discussion in the absence of Secretary Lansing who will return today.

It is argued from the Kaiser's letter by those who are familiar with the last few days of July and the first of August, 1914, that the Kaiser's letter itself proves beyond question that Germany had determined upon a war with France and the "military necessity" of sending troops through Belgium was already evident to the Kaiser when the copy of the Austrian ultimatum to Serbia was received for approval at the Berlin foreign office fourteen hours before it was signed.

The state department has evidence that Dr. Zimmermann made this admission.

The Kaiser's letter was published in the Philadelphia Ledger, and Mr. Gerard says, according to that newspaper, that the admission of the Emperor concerning the military necessity of invading Belgium was made during an interview soon after the war opened.

Although Mr. Gerard does not mention the fact now, it was at this same period that he called the state department information that the war against France had broken out and he left it his duty to let his government know that it was the intention of the German government to "go through France like paper hoops," and it was probable they would not stop until they reached the West Indies, in which event, the ambassador said, the U. S. would have Germany as near neighbor.

In view of the obvious long preparation for the war against France, and the failure of the Emperor to mention in his letter to the President the direct cause for the war with France mentioned in the statement made by the German ambassador at Paris, officials are convinced that the German ruler must stand in history not only as a deceiver, but as the one ruler morally responsible for the world's greatest war. His own letter, intended to deceive the President, now reveals, it is seen the purpose of his own thought to overrun France, and later events have proved that the plan was to stop at nothing short of world domination. As has been observed, the entrance of Great Britain into the war, not expected by Germany, was all that saved the world from becoming the victim of the Kaiser's plot. It is observed that the resistance of Belgium gave France opportunity and time for mobilization so that the German tide was turned at the Marne, and still later, the United Kingdom threw her full force into the struggle and saved France.

Whether President Wilson actually was deceived by the Kaiser's letter, it is impossible to say, but certain it is that no voice of protest was raised against the violation of Belgium. It was urged at the time that the U. S. had no interest in Belgium affected by the invasion. After the war had continued two years, however, the members of Prussian autocracy began to appear and the plan for world domination began to unfold. Then it was, as the President's friends have noted, that he became convinced that the United States must place all her resources and men, if need be, in the struggle to save civilization, and at this moment the position of this government is that it will never make peace with the Hohenzollerns. Its position is that the falsehood behind the words of the Kaiser to the President declaring the "military necessity" of invading Belgium has been revealed and the world's greatest truth now is the "military necessity" of making the Emperor and his followers powerless to do further injury to the nations of the earth.

The text of the letter of the German Emperor to President Wilson is as follows: "For the President of the United States Personally."

"I, H. R. H. Prince Henry was received by His Majesty King George V of London who empowered him to transmit to me verbally that England would remain neutral if war broke out on the Continent involving Germany and France, Austria and Russia. This message was telegraphed to me by my brother from London after his conversation with H. M. the King, and repeated verbally on the 20th of July."

"2. My ambassador in London transmitted a message from Sir E. Grey to Berlin, stating that only in case France was likely to be crushed would England interfere."

"3. On the 30th my ambassador in London reported that Sir Edward Grey in course of a private conversation told him that if the conflict remained localized between Russia and Serbia—

—and Austria, England would not move but if we 'mixed' in the fray she would take quick decision and grave measures; i. e., if I left my ally Austria in the lurch to fight alone, England would not touch me."

"4. This communication being directly counter to the King's message to me, I telegraphed to H. M. on the 29th or 30th thanking him for kind messages through my brother, and begging him to use all his power to keep France and Russia—his allies—from making any warlike preparations calculated to stop my work of federation, stating that I was in constant communication with H. M. the Czar. In the evening the King kindly answered that he had ordered his government to use every possible influence with his allies to refrain from taking any provocative military measures. At the same time H. M. asked me if I would transmit to Vienna the British proposal that Austria was to take Belgrade and a few other Serbian towns and a strip of country as a 'minimise' to make sure that the Serbian promises on paper should be filed in reality. This proposal was in the same moment telegraphed to me from Vienna for London, quite in conjunction with the British proposal; besides I had telegraphed to H. M. the Czar the same as an idea of mine, before I received the two communications from Vienna and London, as both were of the same opinion."

"5. I immediately transmitted the telegrams vice versa to Vienna and London. I felt that I was able to tide the question over, and was happy at the peaceful outlook."

"6. While I was preparing a note to H. M. the Czar the next morning, to inform him that Vienna, London and Berlin were agreed about the treatment of affairs, I received the telegrams from H. E. the Chancellor that in the night before the Czar had given the order to mobilize the whole of the Russian army which was of course, also meant against Germany; whereas up till then the southern armies had been mobilized against Austria."

"7. In a telegram from London, my ambassador informed me he understood the British government would guarantee neutrality of France and wished to know whether Germany would refrain from attack. I telegraphed to H. M. the King personally that mobilization already being carried out, could not be stopped, but if H. M. could guarantee with his armed forces the neutrality of France I would refrain from attacking her, leave her alone and employ my troops elsewhere. H. M. answered that he thought my offer was based on a misunderstanding; that as far as I can make out Sir E. Grey never took my offer into serious consideration. He never answered it. Instead he declared that England had to defend Belgium neutrally, which had to be violated by Germany on strategic grounds, news having been received that France was already preparing to enter Belgium, and the King of the Belgians having refused my petition for free passage under guarantee of his country's freedom."

"I am most grateful for the President's message."

"William, H. R."

NAVY NOTES

Raid "Speak Easy"

Three men were held yesterday in the Adams street court, Brooklyn, on a charge of selling liquor without a license. They were John A. Reilly, an hostler, Joseph, Marini, a teamster, and Charles Bewman, a foreman. Bail was fixed at $500.

Detectives Bestgen and Hartigan disguised as sailors, asked hangers-on near the navy yard where they could get a drink. They were taken, they allege, to the American News Company, stable at No. 33 Tillary street. There, they charge, Reilly sold them beer for 15 cents. Marini sold more beer for 20 cents and Bewman sold a half pint of whiskey for 50 cents.

Send Them to Portsmouth

Delay in the completion of the repairs on the interned German ships as a result of labor disputes may cause the navy department to take the work out of the hands of the contractors.

Secretary Daniels today telegraphed the shipbuilding companies which are outfitting the seized vessels in shape for the seas, requesting that he be informed immediately as to the status of the work. It was indicated that unless there was prompt adjustment of any difficulties causing delays, the ships would be taken to government yards.

French for the Jackies

United States tars had their first lesson in French on Tuesday at the Charlestown navy yard. For an hour and a quarter twenty of them picked by officers worked hard at it. There are twenty lessons in the course under the auspices of the Department of University Extension of the State Board of Education. The total cost to the men is $1, including text books. Tuesday and Thursday 27 marines will take lessons.

Prince in Charge

Charles L. Prince of Kittery, a retired petty officer has been placed in charge of the navy recruiting office at Biddeford.

Inspecting the Prison

Captain William C. Watts, Judge advocate of the navy is here today, making an inspection of the naval prison. Tomorrow he will visit the state prison at Concord where several navy men are serving sentences.

NAVAL RESERVES RE-CLASSIFIED

Enrolment in Class 2 is Suspended and Merchant Officers Go to Class 4.

The navy department has issued orders to all commandants of naval districts to discontinue enrolment of officers and men in Class 2 of the naval reserve and to transfer all former naval militia officers and enlisted men of the navy to Class 4 for service with the fleet naval reserve. Former merchant officers are to be transferred to Class 4 for service with the naval auxiliary reserve.

The new classification makes eligible members of the 1st class primarily for combatant ships; of class 2 for naval auxiliaries of the merchant ship type; of class 3 for special duties in the district and for training in other classes; of class 4 for training in aviation.

Admiral Leclercq of the Belgian commission, sent the following telegram yesterday to Commandant Itash: "I wish to express the thanks of my colleagues and myself for your courtesy and also our admiration of the splendid showing made by the men under your command." To which Capt. Itash made reply: "On behalf of commanding officers battleships Delaware and Virginia and commanding officer receiving ship at Boston and all officers and men of this command I thank you and your distinguished colleagues for the kind compliment conveyed in your telegram of today and beg you to believe that our hearts are in your work."

The navy yard has all the young women needed for the present, and there is now a waiting list.

There is urgent need for platers, shipfitters, drillers and riveters in the naval construction department. In a fortnight 1000 men have been taken on and 300 can be used immediately. The pay is: Riggers, $4; shipfitters, $4.85; drillers, these workers and of calkers, machinists, boatbuilders, plumbers, shipwrights and helpers may be made at the main gate between the hours of 9 and 4. No smokers or draft offenders are wanted and no man employed on government work elsewhere will be accepted unless he can present a certificate that his services are no longer needed.

NO CAUSE FOR ANY ALARM HERE

Diphtheria Scare Started From Report in Paper Concerning Portsmouth, R. I.

The report in a Boston paper which referred to a diphtheria scare in Newport, R. I., mentioned the fact that it had spread to Portsmouth. The item referred to Portsmouth R. I., but nevertheless caused much alarm among many people in this city. The health inspector informed the Herald today that there is no need of any alarm by our people as not a case of the disease exists in Portsmouth as far as the board of health has any knowledge.

CHILD TELLS WIERD STORY OF DESERTION

Rachel Stover, a ward of the York County Children's Aid Society, told a weird story of being deserted by her parents when she attempted to explain to Dennis C. O'Neil of Kelmehampton, how she happened to be wandering alone not far from his home Monday afternoon. According to her story she had been travelling on the Bladford branch of the Atlantic Shore electric with her parents, who, when not far from the O'Neil home, forced her from the car and then went on, leaving her by the roadside.

After hearing her story, Mr. O'Neil connected with Deputy Sheriff Daniel S. Hamilton of Saco, who, with Mrs. Laura Trafton, agent for the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, investigated the matter and found that there was no truth in the entire story, she having run away from a private home where she had been put by the York County society. The story of having been deserted by her parents, she appears to have made up for the occasion.

PRESIDENT PUTS RED CROSS ON MILITARY BASIS

Bestows Army Titles on the Qualified Officers of the Organization.

Washington, August 8.—Secretary of War Baker yesterday announced that President Wilson had reorganized the American National Red Cross on a military basis for service in the great war against Germany.

Hereafter duly qualified officers of the Red Cross will be recognized by military titles with assimilated rank and for appropriate duties. The President's action is taken under authority granted him by joint resolution passed by congress last April. General army orders were issued putting the reorganization into effect, fixing the military titles and describing the uniforms to be worn.

The two ranking officers of the Red Cross will have the rank of major-generals. These are William Howard Taft, former President of the U. S., who is given the assimilated rank of major-general because he is chairman of the Red Cross Central committee. Only one other Red Cross major-general is created. He is Henry P. Davidson who is given this rank because he is chairman of the Red Cross Council.

Elliot Wadsworth, who is vice-chairman of the central committee, is given the rank of brigadier-general. They are Charles D. Norton, Grayson M. P. Murphy, Cornelius N. Bliss, Jr., and Edward N. Hurley.

The general manager and director of the Red Cross, Harvey D. Gibson, formerly president of the Liberty National bank of New York city, becomes a colonel while the assistant director-general becomes a lieutenant-colonel. Announcement of the action of the President was made by Secretary Baker yesterday when he made public general orders of the war department putting the change into effect. It is explained that these commissions confer no military authority, obligation or other incident attached to rank or office, nor any right to pay or allowances of similarly described grades in the United States army. They, however, serve as certificates of identity.

In line with the reorganization of the Red Cross nurses of general origin, the general orders issued in connection with the reorganization of the Red Cross on a military basis direct that in order to avoid the presence in European theatres of war of persons who may not be acceptable to the authorities of any foreign government or in whose loyalty there may be placed undoubted confidence by the government of the United States as well as such governments, the name, residence and former employment of each member of the Red Cross to be sent abroad will be furnished the adjutant-general of the army. If employed abroad, similar information will be furnished the commanding general in France.

KINGSDON GOULD SAYS HE IS NOT A SLACKER

New York, Aug. 8.—Kingsdon Gould insists he is not a slacker even though he did file a formal application for exemption from the draft on the ground that his wife is dependent upon him for support. Young Gould said to a reporter yesterday:

"I am not a bloated bondholder, with a couple of million dollars' worth of Government securities tucked away in odd corners. If I were, a few thousands wouldn't mean anything to me, but lots of people think because my family is wealthy, I am. Do you know that I have to be careful about the outlay of every dollar?"

"I just filled in that application because that was the only way to leave a loop-hole in case I couldn't arrange my affairs so as to take care of my wife," he said. "From the looks of things I won't have to claim exemption at all when the time comes."

"I'm in very moderate circumstances," Mr. Gould went on. "My income depends upon my own labors. Of course, when a chap goes away to fight he doesn't want to leave his wife dependent on the Government nor on his father. I don't say that Mrs. Gould would be; I just say I want to make sure that she won't be. As a matter of fact, lots of men have done just what I did and no one commented on it. It was the only way to protect yourself in case you found out later that you had to claim exemption."

"I told that the newspapers had repeated previous interviews with him in which he was quoted as saying: 'I am ready to do anything the country wishes me to do; there is only one thing for a man to do when he is called, and that is for him to do his duty,' young Mr. Gould said; "I stand by everything I said before. I am going to do my duty."

PASSES DRAFT THEN GOES ON THE WAR PATH

Newcastle, Penn., August 8.—Jess Madison who held draft number 258, and was the first man called for examination in Newcastle, yesterday passed with 100 per cent and did not claim exemption. But he started out a few hours after he had qualified for the army on a tour of law breaking that leads the police to believe that he deliberately made an effort to avoid army service by that method. He entered the Fountain Inn Hotel here and asked one of the patrons, the time, snatched the watch from his hand and ran. A short time later he jumped into a farmer's rig and drove off. He went to the vicinity of the Harmony depot and jumping out of the rig attacked an aged woman who was walking along the street, striking her over the head with a blackjack, police say.

Officers captured him after an exciting chase and had considerable work to keep him from receiving rough usage at the hands of a crowd which witnessed the attack. He is held under $2000 bonds awaiting trial on three serious charges, and if his effort was to evade army service in his procedure last night, the chances are that he was successful. He made an effort to charge his actions to drunkenness, but the police say this was sham.

OBSEQUIES

Gertrude H. Whalen.

The funeral service of Mrs. Gertrude H. Whalen was held from the Church of the Immaculate Conception on Monday where a number of family friends and relatives gathered to pay the last token of respect the living can render the dead. Rev. D. Alex Sullivan, P. R., was the celebrant of a high mass of requiem. Several floral tributes accompanied the remains. Interment was held in Calvary cemetery with funeral director W. P. Miskell in charge. The pall bearers were William Alley, Joseph Walker, Edward Lynchey, Sturgis Whalen.

PLAN TO DRAFT MARRIED MEN

Strong Movement Is Begun Because of Great Number of Exemption Claims.

Washington, Aug. 8.—Claims for exemption from the draft on account of marriage and dependents have become so numerous that Provost Marshal General Crowder yesterday put the whole matter up to Secretary of War Baker for a ruling. The provost marshal's office is being flooded with appeals from the country asking for specific directions in granting discharges on account of marriage and dependents. Gen. Crowder said yesterday that the question was too big a one for him to decide, and that he was therefore laying it before the secretary of war, who, he intimated, might make it a subject matter for cabinet discussion.

It was strongly intimated at the provost marshal's office yesterday that it will be necessary to draft married men, even those with dependents. It is said that there is a strong movement among officials to draft married men and provide separation allowances, as is the practice in England.

One solution of the problem presented by the large percentage of claims for exemption on account of marriage and dependents, it was pointed out yesterday, is the drafting of aliens. While the administration was much averse to pressing this matter some weeks ago, the President has already approved the Rogers and McCumber resolution looking to the drafting of aliens, and it is said there is an increasing sentiment favorable to this policy among the administration officials.

MAYOR OF DOVER HAS PASSED THE PHYSICAL TEST

Dover, Aug. 8.—Mayor Fred N. Beckwith will make good his announced intention not to seek exemption from Army service and will undoubtedly become a soldier in the first army now being raised by Selective Draft. He passed yesterday the physical examination before the Stratford County Exemption Board.

"I am greatly pleased," he said, "to think that I have passed this examination, and I am confident that I shall pass the Army examination also." Asked as to his relinquishing the duties as Mayor to enter the Army, he said: "I have given that matter no thought as yet. Undoubtedly my action will be governed by the date we are to be called to camp."

Nearly 65 per cent of those examined yesterday, exclusive of aliens, were accepted, the totals being 29 accepted, 21 rejected, 18 aliens, 12 absent, four already enlisted. It was announced today. Dr. Walter J. Roberts, chief examiner, said the proportion of those accepted yesterday was about the same as the day before.

Additional men must be called to complete the county's quota of 130.

ONE GIRL ENLISTS 1200 MEN

Dora Rodriguez Is Wonderful Recruiter for Uncle Sam's Army.

One winsome American girl has already added 1200 recruits to Uncle Sam's army. Before long she expects to have raised enough more volunteers to make up a full regiment at war strength.

This enthusiastic worker for Uncle Sam, whose achievements have attracted the attention of the war department, is Dora Rodriguez. She is a Universal Film girl and after war broke out she conceived the idea of walking across the entire continent from New York City to Universal City, California, raising recruits all the way.

She received the hearty co-operation of the Universal Film Co. The war department of the government issued special permission for her to wear the field uniform of the United States Infantry. So donning the soldier garb, Dora set out "aid a big demonstration in New York City."

All along the route the fair marcher has been received with enthusiasm. Pittsburgh could not do her too much honor; her home city, Cincinnati, outdid itself in its enthusiastic reception. From there she pushed on to Chicago and was a big figure at the Motion Picture Convention. Everywhere she added new recruits to the cause, her exhortations and example stirring many young men to enlist under the American flag.

She is going now from Chicago to Universal City, nothing daunted by the terrific task still before her.

CHARLES A. DANA.

Charles Anderson Dana was born on the 8th of August, 1819, at Hinsdale, N. H. He attended Harvard college two years but was forced to leave owing to ill health. In 1842 he joined the Brook Farm Association. He was co-editor of the New York Tribune with Horace Greeley from 1847 to 1862 when he wrote the famous editorial, "On to Richmond," which caused a difference to arise between himself and Greeley, ending in his resignation from the staff of the Tribune. In 1868 he purchased an interest in the New York Sun and was its editor-in-chief from that day until his death. He was co-editor of the American Encyclopedia with George Ripley and edited The Household Book of Poetry published in 1857. His death occurred on the 17th day of October, 1897, near Glen Cove, L. I.

GIVING LIFE FOR PEACE

While the difficulties in the way of re-establishing peace between the contending nations of Europe are in mind it might be helpful to consider the manner in which two Alaskan tribes, the Stikkeen and Sitkas, once settled such a matter. The late John Muir narrates the facts. The bloody feud had lasted all summer, for the parties were evenly matched, and they were all likely to starve in the winter because the women dared not go out to fish or pick berries. But one day a Stikkeen chief appeared between the camps and called for a parley. He said:

"My people are hungry. They dare not go to the salmon streams or berry fields for winter supplies, and, if this war goes on much longer, most of my people will die of hunger. We have fought long enough; let us have peace. You brave Sitka warriors go home, and we will go home, and we will all set out to dry salmon and berries before it is too late."

The Sitka chief replied: "You may well say let us stop fighting when you have had the best of it. You have killed ten more of my tribe than we have killed of yours. Give us the Stikkeen men to balance our blood account then, and not till then, will we make peace and go home."

"Very well," replied the Stikkeen chief, "you know my rank. You know that I am worth ten common men and more. Take me and make peace."

The offer was accepted. The chief gave himself up and was shot down in his tracks, in sight of both tribes. One man died for many and peace was restored.—Christian Advocate.

ARE CONVINCED THAT LAMBERT TOOK HIS LIFE

(By Associated Press)

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 7.—Relatives and friends of Jordan W. Lambert told police officials this evening that they were convinced that he had committed suicide but detectives have not ceased to search for the mysterious woman who came to the apartments inquiring for him, saying "that she feared something dreadful had happened" and which led to the discovery of his dead body in his apartment.

In Lambert's room a letter was found from his wife in which she expressed surprise that he wished to secure a divorce but intimating her willingness to comply with his desires.

Wife Prostrated.

Berlington, Vt., Aug. 7.—News of the death of Jordan W. Lambert, believed to have been a suicide in his apartment in St. Louis, was communicated to his wife who is spending the summer near Hinesburg, near here, with their little child. Mrs. Lambert came to Vermont on May 4 and has remained here since.

She replied to a question through her physician that she and Mr. Lambert were not separated. She met Mr. Lambert several years ago while he was taking a special course at the University of Vermont here. She was a nurse and was employed in taking care of his first wife. She was prostrated by the news of his death.

TWO RUSSIAN REGIMENTS TURN TRAITOR

(By Associated Press)

Aside from the Russian front little action is reported from any of the war theatres, only bombing and small infantry engagements taking place.

Canadian troops operating in the region of Lens continue their successful advances and made new invasions into the coal region centers on Tuesday.

Operations of the German Crown Prince against General Dethlefs' forces in Central France are lessening as they are meeting with no success.

In Champagne the French have penetrated the German lines in three places.

The retreats of the Russians have enabled the Austro-German forces operating in Galicia and Bukovina to practically clear these sections of Russian and Rumanian troops. To the south the Russians gave battle to the enemy but were defeated at Moldavia. At Polesham the Germans were enabled to cross the River Tycheles and the southern Sereus as well as the road to Galitz.

North of the Dniestr in Roumania two regiments of Russian troops turned traitor and retired forcing the retreat of the Russo-Rumanian forces before the enemy.

ROOSTER TOO MUCH FOR FLIVVER.

Philadelphia, Aug. 7.—How the Rooster Held the Meat is the subject of a stirring tale going the rounds here. And, moreover, the story is based on truth.

W. V. Townsend and Harry Willie, Columbus firemen, were "flivvering" their way from Lancaster to Columbus when they saw a chicken bob up ahead of them. "Why does a chicken cross the road?" they chorused. But this one didn't. He stood his ground with the result that the machine turned over and was smashed, while the firemen were bruised.

The rooster was uninjured.

CHANGES MADE IN ARMY UNITS BY DEPARTMENT

(By Associated Press)

Washington, Aug. 7.—Reorganization of the American army units for service in France has been ordered by the war department and each division will consist of 19,000 men instead of the 25,000 formerly agreed upon. The change was made because the department learned that the smaller unit would be easier to handle in France. Divisions will consist of two infantry brigades of two regiments each instead of three brigades of three regiments. Many other changes are made including the addition of much artillery and machine gun companies to each unit.

COWBOYS CALLED TO BE READY TO FIGHT INDIANS

(By Associated Press)

Globe, Arizona, Aug. 7.—Apache Indians in the Sierra Anchas, fifty miles northwest of here, are on the war path and large numbers are preparing to suppress the trouble.

Deputy Sheriff Warner, at the head of a band of rangers, has departed for the mountains and before leaving issued a call to the cowboys in the section to be ready to come to his assistance if the force of rangers was found too small or unable to cope with the situation.

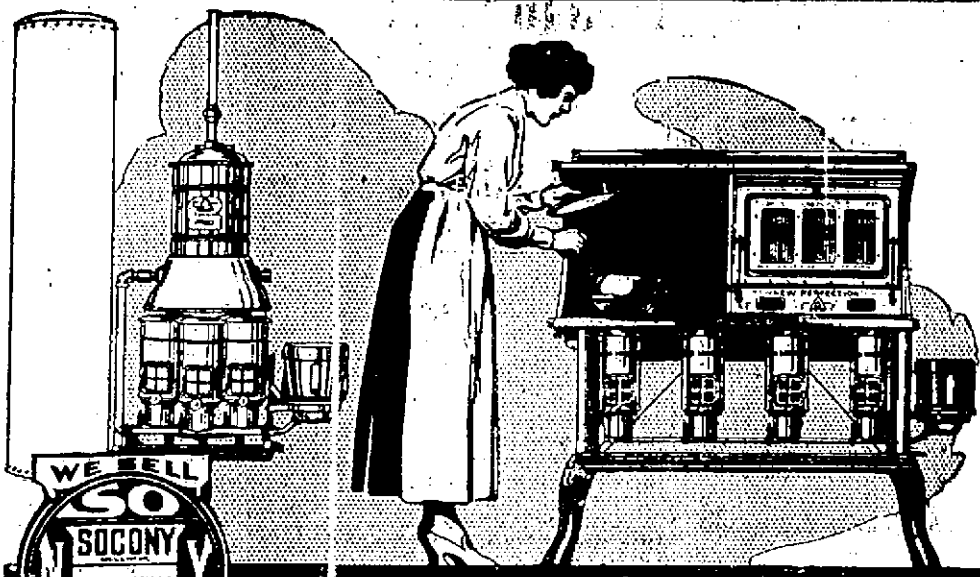

JAPAN WILL KEEP CONTROL OF ISLANDS

Tokio, Aug. 7.—The question of Japan and the South Sea Islands came up in the special session of the Diet in the form of an interpellation by a member of the opposition. Viscount Motono, the foreign minister, was asked whether the present cabinet had officially informed the United States that Japan would abandon the islands. The minister replied that the Japanese government had never made any such declaration to the United States.

EAT CHICKEN TO CONSERVE BEEF AND PORK

(By Associated Press)

Washington, Aug. 7.—An appeal to all who can afford it to eat chicken in place of beef and pork was made tonight by Henry D. Bailett, State Food Director. Mr. Bailett said that there was no large supply of poultry in storage and the saving of beef and pork for export would materially aid in the war against Germany.

NEW PERFECTION OIL COOK STOVES AND OVENS

EVERY MAN AND WOMAN MUST TAKE PART

"Wilberforce," said Mrs. Jenkins, every woman should do something for her country, and, as I am so handy with a can opener and different things, I have decided to join the lady bridge builders' brigade.

"I forbid you!" declared Jenkins, sternly. "I am going down town and enlist Wednesday afternoon, replied his wife with an obedient smile.

The next morning Wilberforce Jenkins, with a check for $5000 in his left hand, held a short but satisfactory conversation with Dr. Goodall, captain of the lady bridge builders' brigade.

On Wednesday, true to her word, Mrs. Jenkins reported at the recruiting station. As she was filling out her card, two lady bridge builders stole past in plain blue and white uniforms with pale de sole caps.

"Mersey!" exclaimed Mrs. Jenkins, why aren't you wearing your cunning tan cap de Jap uniforms with the red striped pantaloons?"

"They were called in early last week, replied one of the lady bridge builders, discontentedly.

"Weew, Sadellia," said Wilberforce Jenkins that evening, "when are you lady bridge builders going to camp?"

"Don't include me in them," said Mrs. Jenkins haughtily. "I am entirely out of sympathy with the spirit of their work."—Detroit Free Press.

SEES NEW ERA IN FRIENDSHIP FOR JAPAN & U. S.

Tokio, Aug. 7.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—Drawing of a new era of friendly relations between Japan and the United States was emphasized by Viscount Kikuchi Ishii, the head of the new Japanese mission to the United States in the speech he delivered at the farewell dinner tendered to him here before his departure for America.

"In spite of the indefatigable efforts of the Germans to bring discord between Japan and the United States," said Viscount Ishii, "these two countries now virtually are allied in making a common front against Germany."

"A new era in the intercourse between Japan and America first dawned when in 1908, a representative body composed of the members of the Pacific Coast Chamber of Commerce paid a visit to this country. Though not a representative sent by the government the party brought home a message of good will and appreciation from the American people to the Japanese nation. And the more than friendly reception which Japan accorded to the distinguished visitors may be left to the recollection of most of the gentlemen who are here this evening. This memorable visit of the American gentlemen opened up the new path of the exchange of marks of friendship and demonstrations of mutual attachment of the two peoples. Then the return visit of representative Japanese business men to the United States, the organization of various associations formed with the object of promoting close relations between the two countries and other undertakings of a like nature followed without interruption.

In the formation of the Japan-American society we see another fresh crystallization of genuine cordial feelings mutually entertained and no one could mistake in predicting a hopeful future for the relations between the two nations. I am exceedingly happy to see new warmth breathed by this recently started organization into the relations of mutual confidence and fraternal feeling existing between Japanese and Americans."

Professor J. T. Swift, speaking for the American community in Japan, said that Japan understands America better than America understands Japan, because in all departments of Japanese life were men who had spent their younger years in American homes and American colleges.

"For their quiet but effective efforts to make America understood in Japan, we Americans cannot be sufficiently grateful," said Professor Swift. "Such men with American experience you have in hundreds. How many men have we in America to explain and extol Japan. Almost none. America's mistakes in the past have been due to misunderstanding. The future cannot be left to chance. We must see to it that on both sides of the Pacific there are men who can see the good in the other country and tell it with strong conviction."

"All over the ship, in mess decks and 'bunks,' the sailorman roused, rubbed their eyes, and endeavored to snatch 'Just another five minutes.'

"Show a leg!" The call is a relic of the old-old days, he they good or bad—when the British sailorman was allowed to take his wife to sea with him, in every ship which flew the white ensign the women were a conspicuous feature and frequently accompanied their husbands to the corners of the earth.

Finally thus carried were inexpensive, but at times the ladies got in the way. For instance, in the morning, while the ship was being scrubbed, they were compelled to remain in their hammocks and 7 o'clock was the earliest they might turn out.

Every lady when turned in, had to wear her stockings; no man—under penalty of flogging (they flogged men for sneezing out of turn in the navy in those days)—was allowed to wear his stockings in the hammock.

A leg? If the leg was incensed in a neat black stocking its owner was told "all right" carry on sleeping. While if bare the seaman was hauled out at once.

Occasionally a prowling ship's policeman would have his suspicions of the sex of the form which snuggled soho particular hammock and creeping softly under it demand to show a leg.

If there was any demure the occupant was cut down by the head clew and slid out on to the deck.

Such were the old days. There is now a stringent regulation which says that no female shall live or sleep on board a man of war except by special dispensation of the Admiralty. In such times as man of war is turned into a yacht or the like—John S. Marston, in Pearson's Weekly.

TO COMMANDEER
WAR MATERIALS
TO HOLD PRICES

(By Associated Press)

Washington, Aug. 7.—President Wilson in an attempt to prevent the increase of war material prices made a personal visit today to the Federal Trade Commission which was discussing prices for materials for the government. The President is determined that war profits will be small and that dealers must furnish supplies and materials to the government for carrying on the war at prices within reason.

The President intimated that if dealers and manufacturers refused to meet the needs of the country at reasonable prices the government might to commandeer materials for war purposes would be exercised without delay.

Familiar Call Which Has Been Sailors' Morning Summons for Years. Originally Was Used to Differentiate Sexes.

"At the hands! Heave out, lash up and saw! Show a leg there, show a leg!"

A leather-junged boatswain's mate shrilled kently on his whistle and repeated his sole, as above—the formula prescribed from time immemorial for the rousing out of the sailorman in the morning. And almost immediately the full chorus of the ship's police and quartermasters, with an assistant marine corporal of the gangway swelled the refrain.

K. OF C. TO RAISE $3,000,000 FOR ITS CAMP FUND

(By Associated Press)

Chicago, Aug. 7.—The war fund of the Knights of Columbus for erecting and maintaining recreation centers for Italian Catholic soldiers and sailors in the training camps will be $3,000,000 instead of the $1,000,000 fund already decided upon. This was voted today by the Supreme Council of the order, which is here in annual convention. It was reported by the council that the $1,000,000 fund had already been largely oversubscribed.

SEEKING MAN AS DIRECTOR OF U. S. SHIPS

SAVE SEEDS FROM GARDEN FOR SPRING

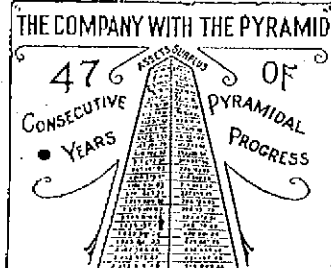

Washington, Aug. 7.—"Don't forget to save beans and peas out of your surplus for the planting next spring," is the advice which seed experts of the U. S. Department of Agriculture are sending to home gardeners and market gardeners in New Hampshire. "Many market gardeners have beans or peas which they find it unprofitable to consume or to sell in the green state at the present time," declared a Department expert today. "They want to use the ground for later planting and there is a temptation to plow under the whole crop. This, however, should not be done. It is better to save the crop, provided the stock is satisfactory, as it can be used for seed next year. Beans or peas in quantities beyond what is needed for seed can be used for food."

It is not difficult to handle and cure the vines and pods of both beans and peas. After the seed has reached full size and before the vines and pods are ripe and dry, the vines should be cut with a scythe or sickle, or pulled by hand. They can be cured by merely spreading on the ground, until well wilted. If the crop is large, the vines should be stacked on ground covered with rails or brush and tied against stakes driven in at intervals a few inches apart. After the beans and peas are dried they can be threshed and the seed recovered.

In the emergency campaign for the conservation of perishable fruits and vegetables, the Department of Agriculture is laying stress upon the necessity of providing for an adequate vegetable seed supply for the 1918 planting season.

BEAT KAISER FOR STEALING HIS MARBLES

Dover, N. H., Aug. 7.—The distinction of being the only man in the United States who ever "kicked" the Kaiser is claimed by Henry Drager, a blacksmith here.

Drager was born in Prussia and spent his childhood under the eyes of the Potsdam palace. William I was then Kaiser, and the present occupant of the throne, who is the former's grandson, was a small boy about Drager's age.

The old Kaiser was very fond of children and always had boys of the neighborhood playing around the Potsdam Park. The old Kaiser himself would go out among the boys and arrange races for them, giving silver money to the winners.

The present Kaiser was kept in school every day except Sunday, so the neighborhood boys never saw him on week days. But on Sundays he was allowed to play with the little boys of humble birth who lived in the vicinity. The main game was marbles. The boys in the neighborhood were well supplied with cheap "concores," as the boys of today still call them, but the future Kaiser always had a big sack of expensive marbles, and the boys liked to get him into the game in the hope of winning some of his "finest agates."

One day during a game the present Kaiser had some of his marbles in the bag, when, by a lucky shot, young Drager won the pot. He made a grab for the marbles, but young William was quicker, and before Drager could prevent it the heir to the German throne had scooped up all the expensive marbles he had lost and was preparing to run with them.

In the excitement of the moment young Drager forgot all about the royal blood in the veins of his playmate—forgot that stone day the little lad opposed him might be ruler of the fatherland. He forgot so completely he grabbed the future ruler of Germany by the neck and sat him down on the pavement in an emphatic manner, at the same time grabbing the highly prized marbles. The future Kaiser began to cry and ran to the palace with his tale of woe.

Little Henry Drager ran home, too—to horrify his parents with the story of his act of "treason." They feared the old Kaiser would be terribly angry and he would mete out some awful punishment upon the young offender. Contrary to their expectations, the old ruler passed the incident without a word, and little Henry was allowed to keep the fancy marbles.

Henry Drager is a big, strong, husky man now—and a loyal citizen of the United States. For many years he has been a blacksmith here and his constant work at the forge has developed his great muscles to almost superhuman power. He still retains his German accent.

"Mein Gott!" he says, "what would I not give to get mine hands on that Kaiser now!"

SHIPBUILDING IN JAPAN HAS TAKEN JUMP

Tokio, Aug. 7.—Before the year 1917 is over the ship yards of Japan expect to launch ninety-seven steamships with an aggregate tonnage of 400,000 tons. Thirty-one merchantmen aggregating 108,755 tons, and each exceeding 500 tons, were completed at various shipbuilding yards in Japan during the six months ending June 30 this year. Sixty-six more, representing 297,611 tons each of more than 500 tons, will be finished before the end of this year.

FIND U-BOAT BUREAU IN GOTHENBURG

Stockholm, Aug. 7.—Allied secret service and intelligence officers, with the co-operation of the police of the Scandinavian countries, have recently succeeded in unearthing and dispersing a large and well organized German submarine intelligence office headquarters in Gothenburg, Sweden.

In their investigations the officer discovered a naval intelligence map of the waters surrounding the British Isles and the North Sea. The water area on the map was divided into small squares, each one numbered. An elaborate code was also found for use in conjunction with this map.

Messages based on this code, although apparently reading like the private mercantile telegrams and cablegrams, could in reality be deciphered into accurate descriptions of allied warships or of hellish or neutral merchantmen.

From the spy headquarters in Gothenburg, agents were sent to Scandinavian ports and attempts were made, whether successful or not, to get them into England. Those agents were supplied with the code and map mentioned and were reporting to headquarters on the sailings of merchantmen. It is supposed that in some way the headquarters in Gothenburg communicated the information to German submarines hidden along the coast.

One of the chief branches of the Gothenburg office was in Christiania, and a Norwegian was actually engaged there to go to England on the espionage service, being supplied with the code and map, in addition to a process of invisible ink writing for mail reports. Another branch was in Malmö, Sweden.

It is believed that many of the agents of the German spies in Gothenburg were Scandinavians. At about the same time of the discovery of the Gothenburg office, a German giving the name of Klein was arrested in Sweden, charged with a plot to murder British Ambassador Buchanan in Petrograd. Klein was afterward released, but deported from Sweden.

ODD DRAFT LOTTERY PROBLEM

Minneapolis, Aug. 7.—The case of one Minnesota man drawn twice in the draft lottery—once in Stevens county where he was one of the first numbers and again in a Montana district—was reported to Adj. Gen. Fred B. Wood, state draft chief, and submitted by him to Provost Marshal General Crowder for a ruling.

Christian Arthur Gaarder, a Morris youth, went to Montana, probably to take a homestead, according to the explanation given by Eric L. Thornton, secretary to the Governor by County Attorney Cherry of Morris. The young man's father feared he would not comply with draft requirements and registered him at Morris. Later it was learned Gaarder had registered himself in Montana, but it was too late then to cancel either card. Then followed the lottery in which he was twice drawn.

NEW AGREEMENT IN MERCY SHIPS BY GERMANY

Madrid, Aug. 7.—Germany has agreed to the safe passage of hospital ships, providing they carry Spanish officers aboard, guaranteeing that they will transport only sick and wounded from France. The Herald stated today, Great Britain, it was stated, has thanked Spain for her assistance in making this arrangement with Germany.

BOSTON CALLS 300 MEN FOR NAVY YARD

Boston, Aug. 7.—Calls for 300 more men were issued today from the navy yard, where more than 1000 mechanics have been enrolled during the past two weeks. Men are urgently needed who are qualified carkers, boat builders, riggers, ship fitters, shipwrights, plumbers and mechanics.

Warnings accompanied the call for more men that no one not properly qualified will be accepted and service is no ground for exemption from the draft. No man will be hired who leaves a private plant engaged in government work merely to better his wages. Such men must submit a written release from any employer with whom they have been during the last three months.

Classes in "war French" were started today in the yard, under the direction of the state board of education, which supplies books, papers and instructors. Twenty sailors were enrolled in a three-day-a-week class meeting in Captain A. W. Stone's quarters this afternoon. A nominal charge of $1 is made for materials used. The course consists of 20 lessons.

White flour bread was eliminated at the yard today in response to the appeal of the state food committee, to save 50,000 barrels of flour in New England this week. Potatoes, rice and other wheat substitute took the place of white bread.

MAN AND WOMAN ACQUITTED ON MURDER CHARGE

Mexico City, Aug. 7.—Captain Adolfo Lopez Mateo, a member of President Carranza's personal staff, and Miss Graciela Sanchez have been acquitted of charges of complicity in alleged attempt on the life of Jesus Acuna, former secretary of the Interior and now one of the leaders of the opposition to the administration in the House of Deputies.

Acuna declared that on May 9, while he was waiting for a street car in the outskirts of the city, an unknown man, after a conversation with Captain Mateo, who, with Miss Sanchez, was riding by on a horseback, fired five shots at him. No one was found who heard the shots or witnessed the alleged attempt.

LARGEST ORDER FOR CLOTH MADE BY THE NAVY

Washington, Aug. 7.—Contracts were issued by the Navy Department today for four and one-half million yards of blue woolen uniform cloth at an average cost of $16,000,000. This is the largest order for cloth ever issued by the department and probably the largest ever made for one purpose. The contracts were issued to thirty-five firms in different parts of the country.

AIRSHIP PLANT CONTRACTED FOR AT PHILADELPHIA

Washington, Aug. 7.—The construction of an aircraft factory at League Island navy yard, Philadelphia, at a cost of $1,000,000 to be completed in 109 days, was ordered today by Secretary Daniels of the Navy Department. The plant will employ about 2000 men and will be capable of turning out 1000 small planes within the year.

THE MAN TO DIRECT SHIP BUILDING—WHO HE IS

Who is to actively direct the work on the wooden ships to be built here? How many times do we hear this question? How are they to get the workmen?

Well, in the first place, we have the men. Shipwrights? Yes; enough of them to direct a thousand or more wood workers.

The master shipwright and director is D. B. Douglas, one of the best known wooden ship builders of Maine. He is from Bath and knows the work from the laying of the keel up.

A complete organization has been perfected and the leaders have been under contract for four months. The men have been secured in large numbers.

If you know of any men that want work at the plant send them to The Herald.

WAR BOARD IS BUSY ON THE EXAMINATIONS

Thirty-Seven Out of Fifty Appear; Most Exemption Claims by Married Men.

Thirty-seven out of the first fifty men called for examination by the local war board put in appearance at the county court house today. The second fifty will be called on Friday. The board is passing on the out of town men first in order that they can catch trains and electric cars for their homes.

Many exemptions are claimed, mostly by married men. Only three aliens were before the board this forenoon and they all claimed exemption. One Polander first thought he would like to fight but changed his mind when he was asked about his family.

The physical end of the examination takes up considerable time as the examining physician takes nearly 30 or 40 minutes on each man.

At noon the board thought that it would finish up with 37 men late this afternoon or tonight. No record of those accepted or exempted will be given out until the board as a whole passes on the same after the full number have been examined.

BECOMES ARMY FLIER

John F. Murphy of Haverhill, Mass., known throughout the country as "Dare Devil Dola," because of his aeronautical exploits, on Tuesday enlisted at Lawrence, Mass., in the aviation corps. He will go to Fort San Houston, Texas, on Thursday. It will be remembered that Murphy gave an exhibition of high diving in this city a few years ago, jumping off the highest point of the Consolidation Coal Company's pocket at the North End, into the river.

CLOTHES LINE THIEVES BUSY

Clothesline thieves are again busy and a wholesale raid by one of these gentry on Hanover street on Monday night was prevented by the appearance of the night watchman at one of our local industries. The appearance of the watchman caused the fellow to beat a hasty retreat and saved the despoiling of the clothes line.

POLICE COURT

Thomas Landon, a soldier, was so good to a sailor that he got in bad with the local and federal authorities. Landon felt bad for the Jack because he was thirsty and he did a little bootlegging for him. He had no trouble in securing the liquor as he was dressed in civilian rig. However, the police got Landon in the act and he goes to Concord today to be arraigned before the U. S. Commissioner on Thursday.

Daniel Doherty, another visitor to the seaside from somewhere in Stratford county, bore indications of being a member of the boot-legging brigade but the police could not pin anything on Daniel outside of a charge of drunkenness. He had several half pints in his pockets when the call came for a trip in the bus. The hardware was confiscated and Daniel brought up today for a hearing. He couldn't remember much about his side trips about the city on Tuesday and simply admitted that he was ossified. The court taxed Daniel for $11.48 and suspended a draft of 60 days at the Spilling industry. Daniel could not raise the $11.48 and will have to work for the county until he is square with the books.

William A. Cornish was arrested for creating a disturbance in a local dance hall. A sentence of 60 days was suspended but a fine of $12.60 was remitted.

CHANGES TIME OF TRAIN FROM THIS CITY TO BOSTON

The Boston and Maine has changed the schedule of the morning train, No. 266, leaving this city at 7:28 for Boston. The new arrangement starts the train four minutes later, 7:32 a. m. The train will make a stop at Salisbury and will be from four to eight minutes later on all stops made between this city and Boston.

Other additional service has been added on the Salisbury branch and between Old Orchard and Portland.

FIRST TRAIN RAN THIRTY YEARS AGO ON YORK BRANCH

The first train over the York Harbor and Beach railroad was run over the line 30 years ago Tuesday. It ran as far as the Hotel Bartlett, Long Sand and had several of the road offelas aboard with the contractors, engineers and invited guests from Portsmouth, Kittery and York.

MEMBERS OF COAST GUARD TAKING TESTS

The men connected with the coast guard stations along the Atlantic coast are being subjected to an exacting physical test and on Tuesday the men connected with the Wallis Sands station were put through one of the tests, that of jumping from a boat into the sea fully dressed and then disrobing and climbing back into the boat again. The test is one that requires a sturdy man as well as an expert swimmer to successfully accomplish.

LOCAL DASHES

Do you know how to can? The sea water is now fine and warm. Oh for the days of the naval reserves.

The auto drivers are altogether too reckless.

Fish of all kinds at Clark's Branch, Tel. 133.

The work at Newington is being rushed.

Some people think they can smoke cigarettes most of the time, drink booze some of the time and devote the rest of the time to girls, and succeed.

Some of our women folks are having hard luck with their earnings and have lost everything thus far. Better follow the sure way and not try every new scheme. See the daily hints in these columns.

THE HERALD HEARS

That a Vaughan street wine clerk says a new drink has been discovered but he did not make the discovery himself.

That he left his place of business for a few minutes on Tuesday and left his friend Bill in charge.

That a customer came in and called for a ginger ale high ball.

That the acting bartender could find no lemon and he flavored the drink with an onion.

That the drink is now known as "onionade."

That the fellow who drank it appeared before the war board today and the only fear he had was that his breath might be smelled in France.

That the Bartenders' Union has received no application from the onionade mixer and it's a question whether or not he gets by.

That the police of Concord made the first move under the curfew law and rounded up three girls, the oldest being 15 years.

That they were taken home and the parents warned what would be the result if caught again.

That Mayor Beckwith of Dover passed the doctors for the draft and is delighted.

That he wants to see service in France, so he says.

That the labor bodies of Concord have given up the plan of a Labor Day parade.

That twenty or more guide signs will be placed about the city for motorists.

That the police have succeeded in catching eight bootleggers so far.

That those Russian women soldiers will not likely be bothered much with corner mashers.

That many of the so-called hair tonics on the market, raise more hopes than hair.

That the only way a woman can be sure of getting a man's pay is to marry one.

BOY KILLED BY FALL FROM A FREIGHT CAR

Was Playing On Roof of Cars When Accident Occurred.

James McGrath, a four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James McGrath of Albany street, died at the Portsmouth hospital on Tuesday night as the result of an accident which occurred late in the afternoon. The boy, with several others, is said to have been playing on the roof of some freight cars. The McGrath boy was running in the opposite direction to two others and went so near the edge that he lost his balance and fell to the ground. His head struck on a rock and caused a fracture of the skull. He never regained consciousness and died at half past ten.

FRANK W. KNIGHT SHOE TALKS

10 Market St. "SHOES OF QUALITY" Portsmouth

THE TEST OF ECONOMY

The ultimate economy of paying the price of a good shoe has never been questioned. Today good shoes cost more than formerly, but it is equally sure that they were never more economical. The test of economy is getting the full measure of service out of a shoe. A good shoe can be worn out and continue to look well in the process. On shoes can be counted on to give that sort of service.
